1. To get started with Photoshop, go to www.adobe.com/photoshop and download the newest version. (The latest version is usually entitled "Photoshop CS" for the current version of Photoshop.) 2. When Photoshop starts, it offers to show you a welcome screen. If you want to save the image, press Ctrl+S. 3. If you want to work on a version of Photoshop saved on another computer or local drive, click Open, and locate the image on your hard drive. Photoshop opens and shows the current version. 4. If you have trouble locating the image, click Open Recent, and the last open image appears on the screen. If you have saved the image on a different computer or local drive, go to that drive and open the image. 5. Click the New Layer icon (see Figure7-2) in the bottom-left corner of the workspace and use the Crop tool to crop out unwanted objects or portions of the image. 6. Create a new layer for the desired objects by using the New Layer icon. 7. Choose the type of layer you want for the new object or image (see the image on the left in Figure7-2). It is important to note that if you create text layers, the characters appear in the center of the layer. However, if you want to create a layer and then position your object on it, click the Layer icon at the bottom of the workspace, and then click the New Layer icon to create a new layer. You can then move the layer down and to the right so you can see more of the image. 8. If you want to add animation to the image, select the frame (see Figure7-2). Select the frame by clicking it and then pressing Enter (Return on the Mac). 9. Locate the name of the desired animation in the In Motion Animation palette (see the image on the right in Figure7-2) and drag it over your image. The animation appears over the image, and the layer name changes to the name of your animation, as shown in Figure7-3. 10. When you no longer need the animation, select the frame by clicking the frame and then pressing Enter (Return on the Mac).

By law, the Department of Defense (DoD) is required to pay for the services of professional translators to communicate in at least 90 languages when funding is available. Unfortunately, DoD has often failed to pay for those services on time. Today, DOD's contracting office, Defense Language Institute (DLI) provides professional quality, high-speed translation of documents in over 100 languages. The DLI does this as part of the translation services it provides to the military services, and also to other federal agencies, businesses, and the general public. In order to support our national interest, help preserve our peace, and promote world peace, we need to know what other countries are doing. The purpose of having a Department of Defense is to maintain the peace. The U.S. military makes that happen around the world by conducting operations to assist friendly governments and non-government organizations in the war on terror and in the struggle to build the capacity of our partners in the region. Most operations begin with translation. Without professional, ready translation, the soldiers that are deployed into a hostile environment face uncertainty as to whether a message is truly of value. Evaluating translation quality for more than 10 years, we learned that the "attitude" of DOD's translators varied widely. In fact, many of them had a strong opposition to the foreign-language profession, something we did not expect. Regardless of why they refused to translate or the attitude of their superiors, many of the translators were reluctant to work on foreign language projects. Worse still, they never seemed to hire the best translators: instead, they selected translators based on the quality of their personal lives, not their language abilities. Given all of the negative experiences that occurred in the past, we took the time to recognize and appreciate quality, and to develop a standard for translators to take with them into the future. Therefore, we launched DLI-EqualRights.org, aimed at raising the professional standard for translators to work for the government. If DLI is to continue providing translation services to the military and other federal agencies, we must provide pro-quality, quality-paying translators—a standard that aligns well with the professional, quality standards and practices of the department. In addition to our effort at EqualRights.org, our leadership has enlisted the help of the Federal Trade Commission, the U.S. Department of Labor, the U.S. Department of

What's New In?

Jesus Christ is risen and your soul from the slums is welcome to rest. Psalm: "Shelter me under the shelter of your wings." (taken from Mute). Thus sang Johannes Sebastian Bach, D.M.C. His vocal music is often sublime and its ostinato-technique great. He can mesmerize, humble, and fortify with a symphony of notes, sometimes psychedelic, sometimes mighty and force you to hear a subtle message. He can make you feel and think or even get a word in that's sometimes times not always in good taste. Bach inspires me to write, dance, and think about theology and theology and thinking. The greatest musical mind produced the best and deepest life music. We could say he doesn't write about God (except in rare cases) but God writes through him, through his lyrical imagination and worded melodies, music that speaks the works of God. Whenever I hear his music it sends me back in time to the inner and outer edge of thought and language to places where contemplation is present and vibrant in any and all of us all the time. In some cases, we don't even realize it. Some people forget to use the pause button, some go on a chatter run, or some get lost in the words they use to describe what they think or are feeling. However, we are all thinking a hundred thoughts a second without us realizing it. These thoughts can be discerned and heard by the right kind of ears, even if they are under the vast, golden, protective blanket of the ocean. I also believe that music heals and can literally change what we hear, what we see, what we feel, what we think, and what we do. Music can and does change our lives, our emotions, our behaviors, our thought processes, etc. The way we approach life and our lives is not all the time by the same rules. Some of us are more chemically driven by music; some of us by words, some of us by colors, shapes, etc. Music requires no words, yet words are required for music. We cannot read music, but we can hear it. We also cannot see our own heartbeat but we can hear it. We can't see the totality of the meaning of art but we can feel it in our bones. Sometimes music is hard to listen to because of its brevity, its extreme mobility, its emotionally piercing nature, or its
