I'm Using "B" Mode but the Fine setter does not help much, can you set the loop's final geometry details? If you are using the fine setter tool, you can't use any of the loop settings. Try changing the hardness to 0.100 and then take a look at the loop. Maybe you are using overshoot mode which, by design, won't work with the fine setter tool. I believe you are using overshoot mode if you are using the fine setter and you are using the BFS (Linear) LOOP settings. Could you please give me more details? I have no idea how to generate and set that loop. Yes, the BFS setting is the one which you want to use to create your horse joint. So, in this case the settings should be BFS, overshooting, 1 step. Make sure to use BFS as a default setting. I have selected this setting to have a working example on my lab. I don't believe that a more accurate simulation is going to help a lot. As a matter of fact, I would agree with your interpretation that the state of the Art interface is annoying to work with. I usually do have the intuit setting on my machine, but maybe I have trouble with my eyes. This is a good example. This is a quick "to-do" list: 1. put all my tools in boxes to make me less likely to lose them 2. call everyone I owe and catch up on the last couple months 3da54e8ca3
