Adobe Photoshop Elements 2019 is a graphics editor for photographers, designers and hobbyists. The features are great and the user interface is easy-to-understand. In the light of the above paragraph, Photoshop Elements 2019 can be used in most cases. However, there are some cases that Photoshop Elements 2019 doesn't offer. I will explain these exceptions below. What Photoshop Elements Can't Do? Photoshop Elements has a simpler user interface than the professional version. So, you can edit your photos, create graphics, tweak photos and make artistic designs. Some of the features can't be performed in Photoshop Elements; the Professional version has more powerful functions to perform these tasks. Examples are: Using features like distortions, working with the eyedropper tool, unsharp masking, using masking, etc. Using functions to edit video or make photo collages. Showing blending modes, live view and live filters. Using more complex features like Spot healing, healing brush, removing 05a79cecff

1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to the illumination field, and more particularly to an LED array having a high-level control of current applied on respective LEDs for enhancing the brightness, without affecting the performance of the LEDs. 2. Description of the Related Art Referring to FIG. 1, a conventional LED array 100 includes a plurality of LED strings 102, a decoder 104, and a driver 106. The LED strings 102 are serially connected and respectively connected to the decoder 104. The decoder 104 is electrically connected to the driver 106. The driver 106 is electrically connected to a power supply source 112 for receiving a power source current to flow in the LED strings 102 according to the control of the decoder 104. Referring to FIG. 2, the decoder 104 has a plurality of parallel switching transistors T1-TN for serially connecting the power source 112 to the LED strings 102 in response to a control signal SI. When a first voltage of the control signal SI is asserted to a high level and a second voltage of the control signal SI is asserted to a low level, a conduction of the first switching transistor T1 is driven to turn on to apply the power source current to the first LED string 102, and a conduction of the remaining switching transistors T2-TN is driven to turn on to apply the power source current to the remaining LED strings 102. As such, each of the LED strings 102 is connected in parallel with a fixed resistor R. The voltage drop across the fixed resistor R is equal to the power source current, which may cause a high-level control of the power source current applied on the LED string 102 for enhancing the brightness thereof. Referring to FIG. 3, the LED string 102 has a plurality of LEDs 142 and a plurality of chip resistors RC. In case of a high-level control, the LEDs 142 are driven to emit lights, and a current IAC is equal to a sum of the power source current and a current flowing through the chip resistor RC. However, the power source current may be too large to affect the brightness of the LED strings 102 or other problems may be caused, such as an undesirable flashing phenomenon. Therefore, there is a need of providing an improved LED array and an improved current control apparatus to mitigate or obviate the aforementioned problems. Q: How to get the parent template(s) in backbone? I have a collection of users that display in a template. There are various ul's and li's in there that contain links to the users profile. I want to have a function that checks that the user url is associated with an existing user. I need to know which li's contain the user's url. I've tried everything from console.log('current template'); to Backbone.history.fragment('#home'); I get undefined for the current template or 'home' for fragment. I'm not asking anyone to write my code, I'm just looking for a point in the right direction. A: It depends on where you want to test, assuming you would like to test this at the view level, you can do this by calling.get('current-template') (more info on custom view names) If you're writing the test, you should actually grab that information from what route is given to the route handler. For example, if you have an index route set up like so: UsersCollection = Backbone.Collection.extend({ url : "/users", initialize: function() { this.bind("add", this.render, this); } }); UsersView = Backbone.View.extend({ template: _.template($("#user-template").html()), render: function() { var self = this; var template = this.template; var users = this.collection.models; _each(users, function(user) { console.log(user.toJSON()); }); $(this.el).html(template({users: users})); return this; } }); You would use the render method inside of the route handler to get whatever users are in your collection and then pass them to the view when rendering: routes: { " :
