Seck (Stylus RMX v6.1.4).A Universal Credit claimant who lost £100,000 in benefits after being hit by a £2,000 household energy bill has told how it is "like being in jail", as the Government struggles to meet a deadline set by Labour. The claimant is still waiting for five weeks of payments after an appeal was made against a £2,000 bill for the energy provider, SSE. The claimant paid the bill in full and had no idea that payments would be delayed until after an appeal was made. According to the Department for Work and Pensions (DWP), it is impossible to get more than two weeks of payments when an appeal is made. The claimant was told he could only collect his benefits in two weeks and was given a claim code to be issued when the appeal had been considered. But he got a letter from the DWP saying the appeal had been lost - with no date for payments and no claim code. He said: "It's like being in a jail. You just can't get out and I'm so worried about money." If I'd waited until the next day I could have got more than two weeks - and I'm going to be in debt all summer." The claimant told how he had borrowed money from friends and family to pay his energy bill and it was due to be paid by the bank next week. DWP minister Sarah Newton said: "What the claimant has said is simply untrue. He was due to be paid within two weeks and was issued with a claim code - but later told he would not be
